

Create Public Relations Communication and Educational Media Content for Fort Peck

Project Title	Create Public Relations Communication and Educational Media Content for Fort Peck
Project Summary	Use your writing, editing, and design talents to help improve the health knowledge and outcomes of 9,000 Native Americans.
Country	United States

Project Description

The Fort Peck Service Unit in the Indian Health Service provides healthcare for enrolled members of the Sioux and Assiniboiné Tribes. We are looking for an intern to use their writing, editing, and design talents to create educational and motivating media that will assist our patients in understanding not only the medical staff's role in their healthcare but the patient's role as well. We are looking to improve our educational materials to help improve our patient's health outcomes. We are looking to inform the community of our staff, services, and resources so we may be competitive in the healthcare marketplace. Projects may include write/review policy/procedures, develop medical home literature, improve our website design/content, develop marketing strategies, create infographs, assist in promoting our patient health record, and produce a newsletter (or other communiques).

Required Skills or Interests

Skill(s)
Cultural diplomacy
Design thinking
Editing and proofreading
Graphic design
Infographic design
Marketing
Social media management
Website design
Writing

Additional Information

None

Language Requirements

None